Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-3, 5, 6, 8, 10, 11, and 13 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

Referring to claim 1, the prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest if a fault occurs in access from said channel adapter or said another channel adapter to said shared memory or said another shared memory of said storage apparatus: accessing said shared memory or said another shared memory by use of whichever of said connecting means that was not used when said fault was generated; determining a fault location from a result of the accessing step; and isolating said fault location.

Referring to claim 5, the prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest if a fault occurs in accessing said shared memory, said processor causes attempted access of said shared memory from said channel adapter by use of a first one of said first plurality of connecting means, access of said shared memory from said channel adapter by use of said a second one of said first plurality of connecting means, and access of said shared memory from said another channel adapter by use of a first one of said third plurality of connecting means, to isolate said fault.

Referring to claims 6 and 13, the prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest wherein a processor of said channel adapter issues a locked access command to said shared memory when executing certain processing and executes unlocking after completion of said certain processing.

Referring to claims 8 and 11, the prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest wherein a processor of said disk adapter issues a locked access command to said shared memory when executing certain processing and executes unlocking after completion of said certain processing.

Referring to claim 10, the prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest if a fault occurs in accessing said shared memory, said processor causes attempted access of said shared memory from said disk adapter by use of a first one of said first plurality of connecting means, access of said shared memory from said disk adapter by use of said a second one of said first plurality of connecting means, and access of said shared memory from said another disk adapter by use of a first one of said third plurality of connecting means, to isolate said fault.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
